

His love (Dark before the dawn)

Dark before the dawn
The father's heart is broken
Watching while his only son is beaten shamefully
Here I stand amazed
He drank the cup of suffering
Laying down his own life to die in agony
What a great surrender
What a great surrender
What a great surrender
He gave his life for me

His love has more than conquered
His love has paid for me
The price that was demanded
Oh my Saviour why so much for me

There upon the cross
I see the plan unfolded
Why the one so lovely was crucified for me
Even through the pain
He offered such forgiveness
All he did was love us and how did we repay
We are now forgiven
We are now forgiven
We are now forgiven
And this is now our claim

What a great exchange
Grace so freely given
Redemption bells are ringing
Christ has won it all
Now the dawn has come
There's hope for each new morning
All creation singing songs of liberty
He cried it is finished
My heart sings it's finished
Once for all it's finished
All heaven and earth agree
